

Economic Impact Study 2007

Findings from the most comprehensive economic impact study of the nonprofit arts and culture industry ever conducted in the United States provide compelling evidence that nonprofit arts organizations generate valuable economic activity in communities across the country.

The Arts Council of Indianapolis is excited to report these findings are especially true in central Indiana. The study, Arts & Economic Prosperity, determines that nonprofit arts organizations make a significant economic contribution – and difference – to Indianapolis and the surrounding community.

Economic Impact Study - Fact Sheet 331.14 Kb

2007 Economic Impact Study 2.87 Mb \(full\)